GUIDE 1 OF 2 · FOR THE BUSINESS OWNER

How to send an invoice and get paid with Living Pay

Living Pay sends your clients a PayPal invoice that can answer their questions, agree a payment plan or a small discount within rules you set, and ask you about anything bigger. You never chase anyone: you answer a few messages on your phone, and the money arrives in PayPal.

Tip: This guide is for you, the person sending invoices. In the examples you are Kora Studio, a design studio, billing a client called Zainab Musa from Musa Bakes $800 for a bakery logo, with $200 of it going to your illustrator, Ada Nwosu. Guide 2 shows what Zainab sees. On screen, the app is labelled Living Invoice: that's Living Pay.

BEFORE YOU START

Open Living Pay

Living Pay runs on your Mac. Open the Terminal app (press Command + Space, type Terminal, press Enter), paste this line and press Enter:

cd "/Users/amagatech/Desktop/PAYPAL hackathon /living-invoice" && python3 server.py

Then open http://localhost:8790 in Safari. Leave the Terminal window open while you use Living Pay; closing it stops the app.

Good to know: This uses your PayPal sandbox: PayPal's practice mode. Invoices and payments look real but no real money moves, so you can try anything safely.

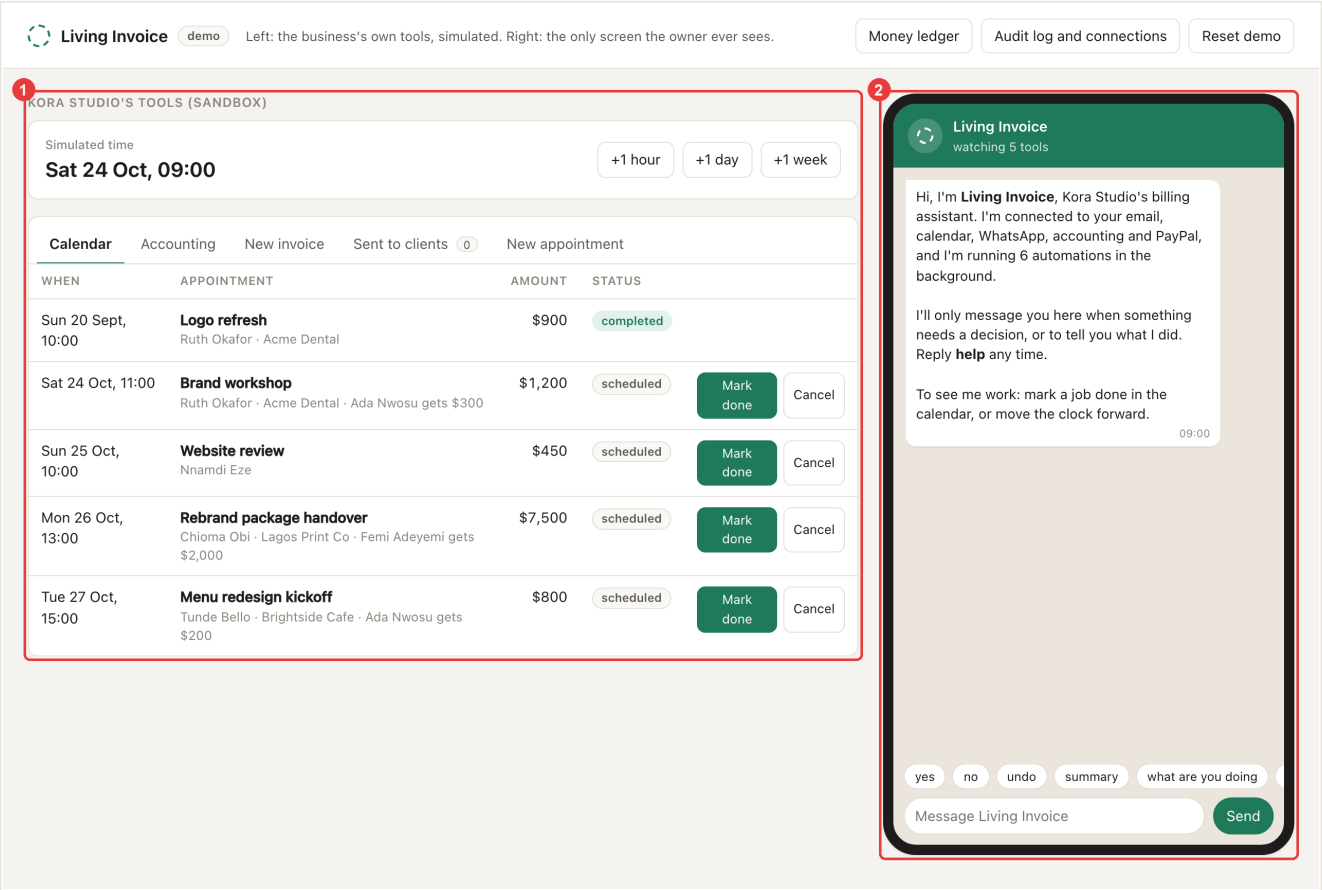

Just want to practise without PayPal at all? Use this line instead. It runs a pretend PayPal, so you can pay invoices with one click:

cd "/Users/amagatech/Desktop/PAYPAL hackathon /living-invoice" && ./scripts/demo.sh

STEP 1

Your screen at a glance

Living Pay shows two things side by side. Everything happens on the left, and the app talks to you on the right.

1. Your business tools. Tabs for your Calendar of jobs, Accounting (invoices and payouts), New invoice, Sent to clients (emails) and New appointment.
2. Your phone. Living Pay messages you here when something needs a decision, or to tell you what it did. Answer with the buttons in a message, or type in the box at the bottom and press Send.

Tip: In real life the phone would be WhatsApp. Here it's a pretend phone on the same screen.

STEP 2

Open the New invoice tab

To bill someone, click the New invoice tab at the top of the left side.

1 Click New invoice. A short form appears.

STEP 3

Fill in the invoice and send it

Fill in who you're billing, what for and how much. Only the client, what it's for and the amount are required.

1. Client. Pick someone you've billed before, or choose + New client…
2. For a new client, type their name, company (optional) and email. The invoice is emailed there.
3. What it's for, in a few words. The client sees this on the invoice.
4. Amount to charge.
5. Due in: how many days the client has to pay. 14 is fine.
6. Subcontractor's share (optional): part of the money that belongs to someone who helped you. Leave it at 0 if nobody did.
7. Paid to: who gets that share. Choose + New subcontractor… to add someone with their PayPal email.
8. Click Send invoice. It goes out straight away.

STEP 4

Your invoice is on its way

After sending, Living Pay switches to the Accounting tab and confirms on your phone.

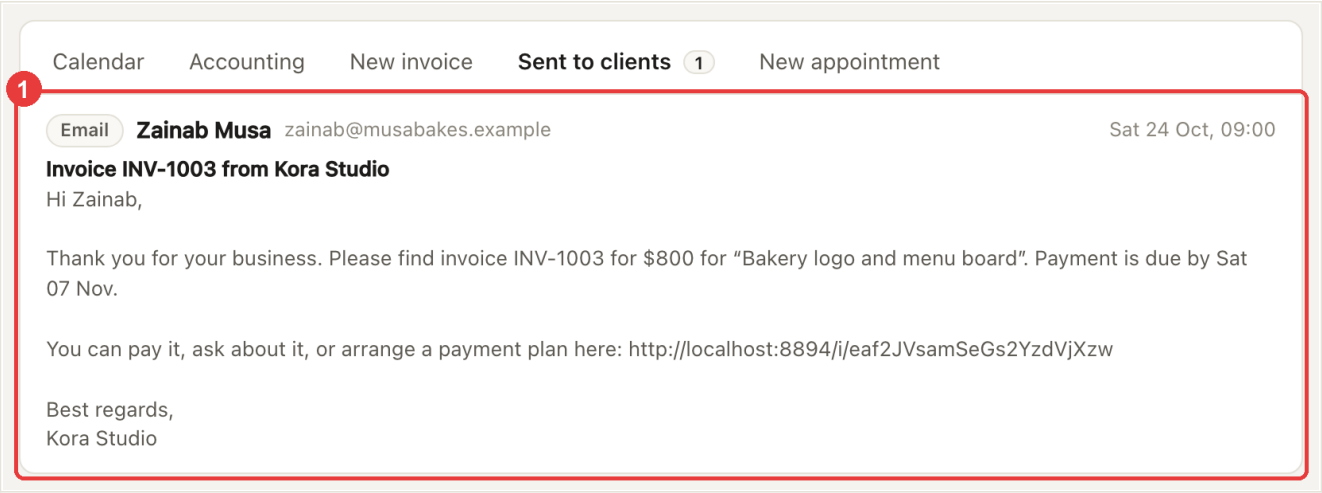

1. Your new invoice, with its number, client, amount and due date.
2. Client view opens the exact page your client sees. Use it to check the invoice, or copy its address to send it yourself.
3. Your phone confirms what was sent. Made a mistake? Tap Undo: the invoice is cancelled in PayPal and the client gets a short "please disregard" email.

STEP 5

What your client receives

The client gets an email with a link to their invoice page. You can read every message Living Pay sent in the Sent to clients tab.

1. The email. The link at the bottom opens the invoice, where the client can ask questions, arrange a plan and pay.

Good to know: Right now emails are shown here rather than really sent. To send real emails from your Gmail, open Audit log and connections (top right) and click Connect Google. Even then it sends to you first, until you switch on sending to clients.

STEP 6

When a client asks for something

Clients can ask their invoice for a payment plan, more time or a discount. Small requests inside your rules are agreed straight away, and you just get a Done message with an Undo button. Anything bigger comes to you as a question like this one.

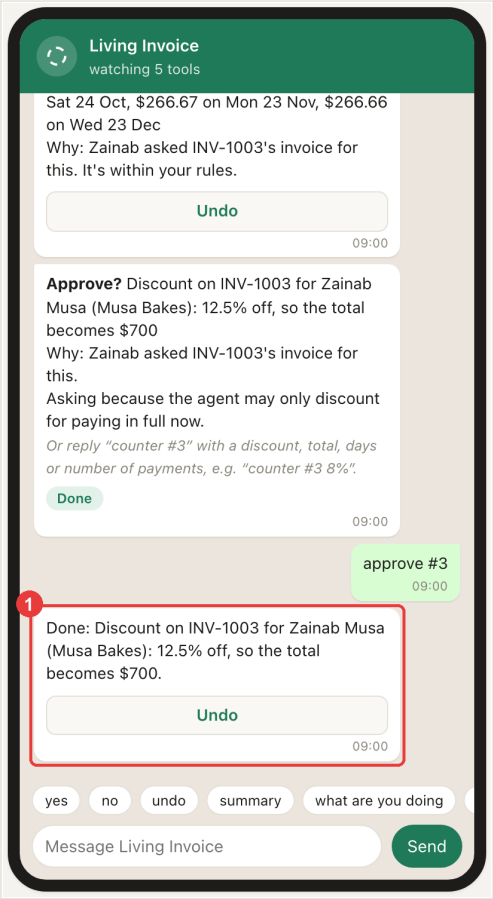

1. What the client asked for, and why it needs you. Here Zainab asked for the invoice at $700 instead of $800.
2. Approve: agree. The invoice changes in PayPal and the client is told at once.
3. Skip: say no. The client is told politely, and the invoice stays as it was.
4. Or counter-offer by typing, for example counter $750, counter 5%, counter 10 days or counter 2 payments, and press Send.

Tip: If you approve the same kind of request three times in a row, Living Pay offers to handle those itself in future. If you later undo one, it goes back to asking you.

STEP 7

You've answered

Your phone confirms what happened, and the client's page updates by itself.

1 The confirmation. Undo puts the old price back if you change your mind.

STEP 8

Getting paid, and paying your helper

Each time the client pays, your phone tells you. When the invoice is paid in full and a subcontractor is on it, Living Pay offers to pay them their share through PayPal.

1. Paid: the invoice is settled.
2. The offer to pay Ada her $200 share. The first payment to anyone always asks you first.
3. Tap Approve and PayPal sends Ada the money. She gets an email from PayPal to collect it.

Tip: Changed your mind after approving? Undo cancels the payout as long as Ada hasn't collected it yet. If PayPal is still processing it, try Undo again a minute later.

STEP 9

Check your invoices and payouts

The Accounting tab lists every invoice and every payout, with its status.

1. Invoices: who owes what. Labels show due, overdue or paid. Record payment is for money that arrived outside PayPal, like a bank transfer.
2. Payouts to subcontractors: unclaimed means sent but not collected yet.

STEP 10

See the agent's rules

The rules decide what the invoice may agree to without asking you. Type rules on your phone and press Send to see them.

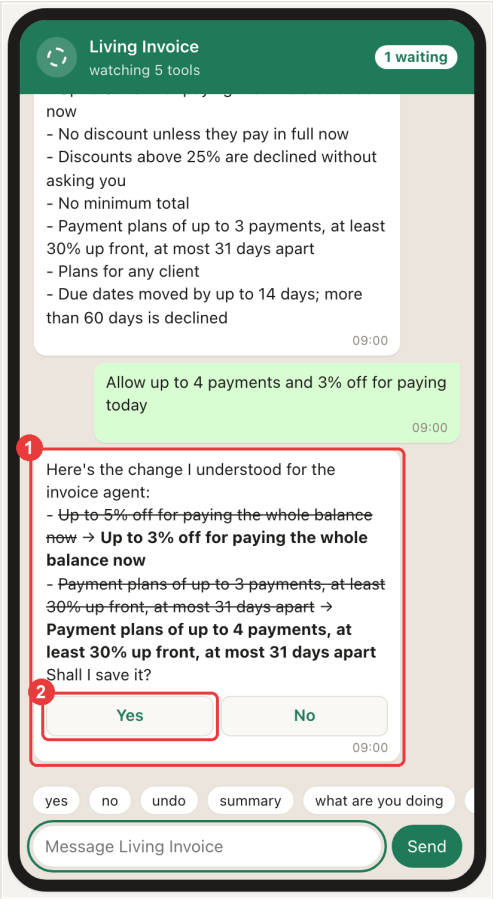

1. Your current rules, in plain words.
2. Type here, then press Send.

STEP 11

Change the rules in your own words

Type a rule the way you'd say it, for example Allow up to 4 payments and 3% off for paying today. Living Pay shows you exactly what would change before anything does.

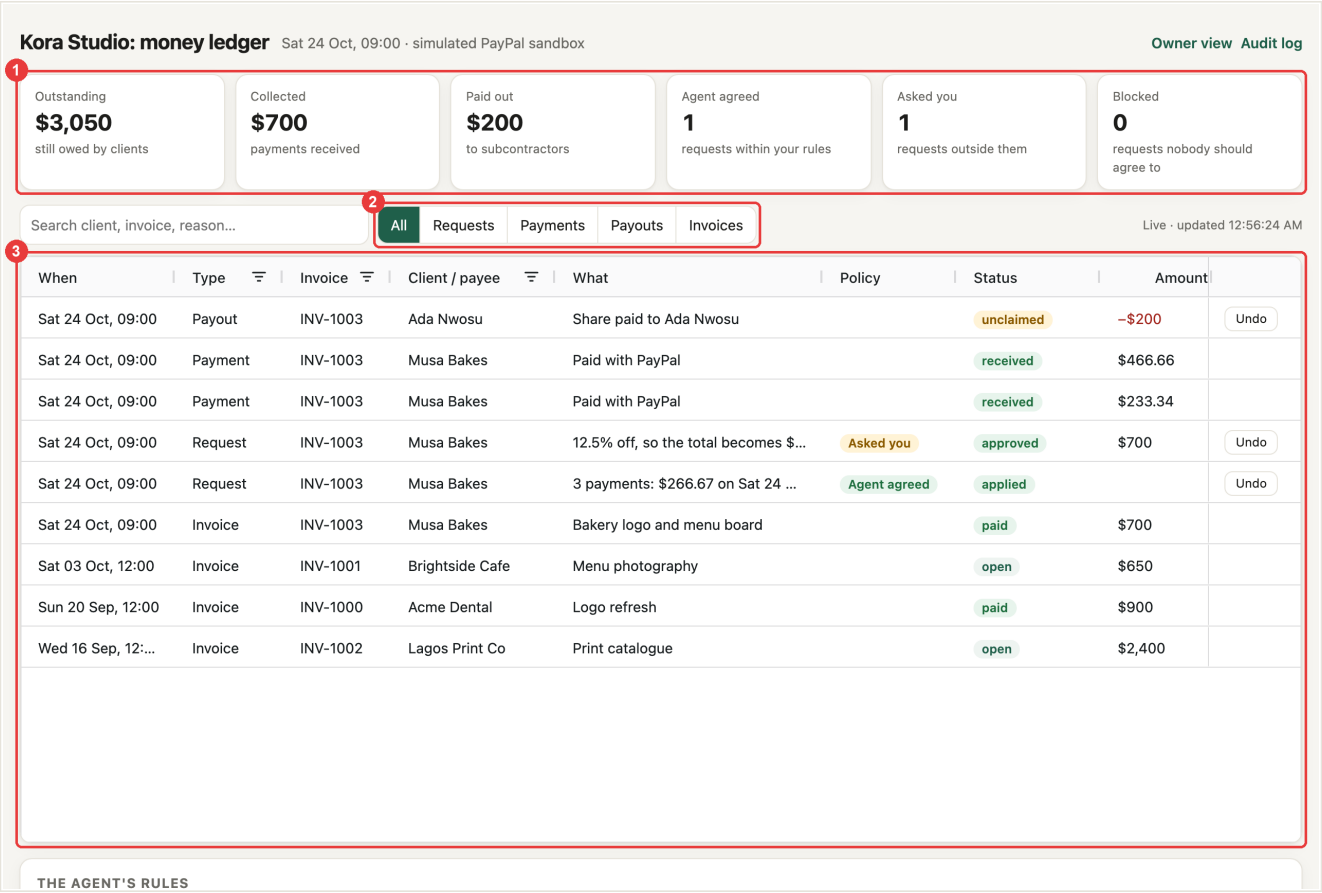

1. The old rule is crossed out, and the new one is in bold.
2. Tap Yes to save, or No to leave the rules as they were.

Tip: Other things you can type: Only offer payment plans to returning clients, Allow up to 3 weeks extra, Decline any discount over 15%.

STEP 12

The money ledger

Click Money ledger at the top of the owner screen to see everything in one table: every invoice, request, decision, payment and payout.

1. Totals: what's still owed, what's been collected and what's been paid out, plus how many requests the agent agreed, asked you about or blocked.
2. Show only requests, payments, payouts or invoices. The search box finds a client or invoice.
3. Every event, newest first. Undo reverses anything that can still be reversed.

Quick answers

I sent an invoice by mistake.

Tap Undo under its "Sent" message on the phone. It's cancelled in PayPal and the client gets a correction email.

Where do I find the link to a client's invoice?

Accounting tab → Client view on that invoice's row.

What can I type on the phone?

Type help for the full list. The buttons under the box are shortcuts: yes, no, undo, summary and what are you doing.

Can the invoice give away too much?

No. It can only agree to what your rules allow. Anything more comes to you, and requests far outside the rules, like 90% off, are declined without bothering you.

What are +1 hour / +1 day / +1 week?

They move the practice clock forward, so you can see overdue reminders and later installments without waiting.

How do I start again from scratch?

Click Reset demo at the top right. It clears the practice data on your Mac.

Is this real money?

Not in the sandbox. Invoices, payments and payouts all happen in PayPal's practice mode.
